

Mike Heekin Bio

Mike Heekin is a graduate of the University of Florida with degrees in accounting and law, and a graduate of the Wharton School with a master's degree in business administration.

Early in his career, Mike served as a captain in the United States Army on active duty for four years in Fulda, Germany, and Washington, DC, and in the United States Army Reserve for an additional nine years. Also earlier in his career, he was associate dean of the Florida State University College of Law.

He was founding chief operating officer and board member of WebMD, and has held leadership roles in several other health information and healthcare services companies. Among those, Mike served as advisor and then chief operating officer to Moffitt Cancer Center's M2Gen subsidiary, a visionary oncological bioinformatics and drug discovery venture.

Mike has served on the Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America Atlanta Area Council, on the Board of Trustees of the University of Florida, on Gov. Jeb Bush's health information advisory board, and on the board of the Research Foundation of the Atlanta VA.